

Contents lists available at ScienceDirect

Australian Critical Care

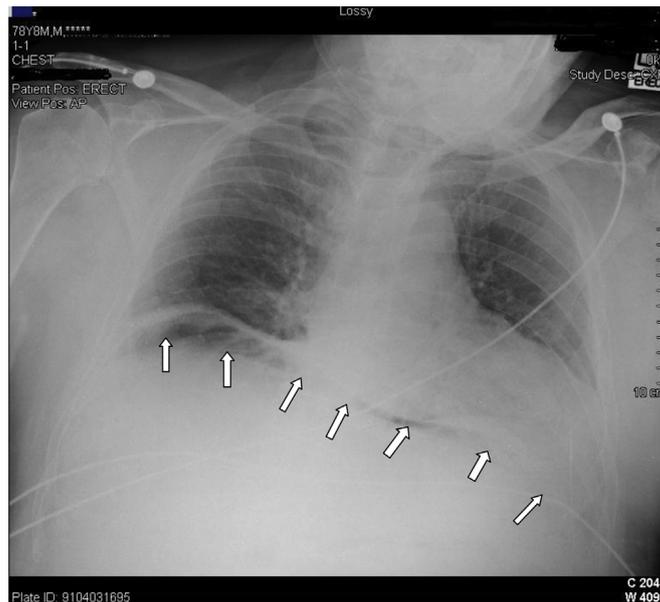

journal homepage: www.elsevier.com/locate/aucc

Chest x-ray quiz

Answer and discussion

Answer and discussion

The abnormality seen on both right and left side is subdiaphragmatic free gas (arrowed,) representing pneumoperitoneum, which was found to be due to intestinal obstruction. He was referred for urgent surgical consultation. There is also a likely pleural effusion and/or atelectasis left base.