

Viswanatha R Chinta, MD

Dr. Chinta is PGY-4 Cardiovascular Medicine fellow at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center. He received his medical degree from Sri Venkateswara Medical College, India, and then moved to Seton Hall University, NJ to complete his Internal Medicine training. He served as Hospital Medical Director at St. Francis Medical Center, NJ in his previous job. He is board certified in Internal Medicine and has had abstracts and presentations accepted to the International Academy of Cardiology conference. His research areas of interest are cardiac arrhythmias and heart failure therapies.

Sameh Askandar, MD, MSc

Dr. Askandar is a PGY-3 Family Medicine resident at Baptist Memorial Hospital/ Church Health Family medicine program. He received his medical degree from Ain Shams University School of medicine, Egypt. He finished his training in general surgery and plastic surgery at Ain Shams University hospitals. Following that he was trained as plastic surgery fellow at the University of Tennessee Health science center. He was also trained as plastic surgery fellow at Hopital Necker-Enfants, Paris, France. He has multiple publications in surgery, plastic surgery and internal medicine, with interest in family medicine.

Amit Nanda, MD

Dr. Nanda is PGY-3 Internal Medicine resident at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center Memphis TN. He received his medical degree from the University of Missouri-Kansas City. He has had abstracts and presentations accepted to the American College of Cardiology and International Academy of Cardiology conferences. His research areas of interest include structural heart disease and arrhythmias.

Arindam Sharma, MD

Dr. Sharma is PGY4 Cardiovascular medicine fellow at Creighton University, Nebraska. He graduated from Internal medicine residency at University of Tennessee Health Science Center Memphis TN. His research interests include TAVR and cardiac arrhythmias.

Peter Abader, MD

Dr. Abader is researcher at Mayo clinic Florida. He graduated from Kasr Alainy School of Medicine, Cairo University, Cairo, Egypt.

Rajesh Kabra, MD, FHRS

Dr. Kabra is Associate Professor of Medicine, Cardiac Electrophysiology, University of Tennessee Health Science Center Memphis TN, Director, Electrophysiology Ablation Services Methodist University Hospital Memphis TN. Dr. Kabra is also Program Director of Cardiac Electrophysiology fellowship program at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center. Dr. Kabra graduated from All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New India. He pursued Internal Medicine residency at University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, Iowa City IA where he later joined Cardiology fellowship program and graduated. After he pursued Clinical Cardiac Electrophysiology Fellowship at

Massachusetts General Hospital, Harvard Medical School, Boston MA. He published many manuscripts and he himself is reviewer of multiple peer reviewed medical journals. His interests include Atrial fibrillation, Cardiac arrhythmias management and outcomes.

Rami Khouzam, MD, FACC, FACP, FASNC, FASE, FSCAI

Dr Khouzam is the Program Director of the Interventional Cardiology Fellowship and Associate Program Director of the Cardiology Fellowship Programs at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center. He is a Professor of Medicine with tenure in the Division of Cardiology at University of Tennessee Health Science Center. He is also the Medical Director of the Cardiac Cath lab at Methodist University Hospital. Dr. Khouzam supervises the overall teaching program, evaluation of trainees and quality control. Dr. Khouzam is Vice Chair of the Medicine Department at Methodist University Hospital. He assumes the role of Vice- Chief of Staff of the Unified Medical Staff for the Methodist LeBonheur Health Care System. Dr. Khouzam is ABIM board certified in Internal Medicine, Cardiovascular Diseases and Interventional cardiology. He also possesses board certification from the American Society of Nuclear Cardiology, the American Society of Echocardiography and the Certification Board of Cardiovascular Computed Tomography. He supervises and prepares the presentations of the Cath conference weekly, as well as the Journal Club and Morbidity & Mortality conferences monthly. He actively participates in the direct clinical training of the fellow. He is an educator and research investigator. He is the author and co-author of more than 200 manuscripts published in peer-reviewed journals, as well as a reviewer for more than 10 medical journals. Dr. Khouzam performs, supervises and teaches at the Methodist University Hospital, Methodist South Hospital, and Methodist Olive Branch Hospital.