EDITORIAL POLICIES

Annals makes every effort to fulfill the needs of its advertisers; however, there are guidelines established by our Editorial Board, by the American College of Emergency Physicians, and by other governing bodies that occasionally necessitate our changing ad copy, both commercial and classified.

- The terms "emergency room" and "ER" will always be changed to "emergency department" and "ED" at the advertiser's expense, if necessary.
- The terms "emergency medicine physician" and "emergency department physician" will always be changed to "emergency physician" at the advertiser's expense, if necessary.

While Annals believes that the ads it accepts originate from reputable sources, it takes no responsibility for the consequences resulting from, or the responses generated by, any commercial or classified advertisement.

Annals Advertising Policy is available on request. Ads will be edited for style.

CALL FOR COLOR CHANGES

If "camera ready" artwork sent to us is generated by laser output less than 1270 dpi, we will accept a paper proof (300 dpi) of the ad along with the disk and produce 1270 dpi artwork at no extra charge. If neither camera-ready artwork nor a disk is sent or if an ad needs to be typeset or changed, a typesetting charge will be billed to the advertiser. A times rate on display advertising guarantees a reduced rate but does not protect against periodic rate increases. Display ads are commissionable.
