Submit Your Abstract

Get recognized by the Leaders in Emergency Medicine

Abstracts Are Due May 21, 2020

The American College of Emergency Physicians' 2020 Research Forum is dedicated to the presentation of original research related to emergency medicine by investigators in clinical and basic science.

Abstract Review Process

Abstracts will be peer reviewed in a blinded manner for presentation at the 2020 Research Forum. Abstracts that are judged to be scientifically valid with important information that has potential to directly impact patient care will be scored more favorably.

Notification letters will be emailed on or before July 1, 2020. We regret that we cannot give notification by information by telephone.

Accepted Abstracts

All accepted abstracts will be presented electronically in Power Point (or equivalent) format. The top 15 abstracts will be presented during daily plenary sessions; all others will be given during themed e-poster sessions.

Awards

Presenters will be evaluated in real time by members of the ACEP Research Committee. Based on presentation quality, research methodology, and potential clinical impact, recipients of the following will be selected:

1. Best Abstract Award

2. Best Young Investigator Award

Assistant professor or instructor level within first five years of faculty appointment

3. Best Resident Research Award
