

Erratum

An error was made in the article on “Atopic Dermatitis: New Developments” appearing in the January 2019 issue of Dermatologic Clinics (Volume 37, Issue 1). The sentence, “However, these trials were notable for their strong vehicle effect—with 40.6% in the vehicle control group achieving clear/almost clear with a 2 or more grade improvement in the AD-301 study, leading to questions about the true efficacy of the active ingredient.” should read “However, these trials were notable for their strong vehicle effect—with 40.6% and 29.7% in the vehicle control groups achieving clear/almost clear in the AD-301 and 302 studies.” The online version of this article has been corrected.