2019 Air Medical Transport Conference Preview

Natasha J. Ross, CMP

The Air Medical Transport Conference (AMTC) is going to Atlanta! The AMTC will be at the Georgia World Congress Center (GWCC) with easy access to the Georgia Aquarium, World of Coca-Cola, and Inside CNN Tour—all within walking distance of the GWCC convention district. Thank you to our host programs for their generous welcome.

Once you arrive, make sure to catch up with your friends and colleagues at the opening reception/MASH Bash at the Omni CNN Hotel. Really liked your Halloween costume last year? Here's another opportunity to wear it one last time!

Make sure to download the AMTC mobile app when it becomes available on your mobile devices. Set up your schedule and start sharing and networking before you arrive on-site in Atlanta. This year's keynotes should be added immediately to your schedule; you won't want to miss them! The AMTC trade show always showcases cutting-edge products and services for medical transport providers. Everything from flight suits and helmets to aircraft and emergency medical services interiors will be available on the trade show floor. You'll want to make time to walk the floor and see all the offerings!

Celebrate industry stars at the Community Awards Event on Monday, November 4, in the GWCC. All are welcome. Come dressed to impress—or at least come dressed! Join us, grab a drink, and get seated; we are starting promptly at 7 PM, with the first award given within 180 seconds. As always, community partner organizations will make their respective announcements during the early portion of the evening.

Immediately after the last award presentation, we are throwing a party! You will have an opportunity to celebrate, share a toast to your community award winners, and perhaps show off some newly acquired dance moves.

The AMTC is organized by the Association of Air Medical Services in partnership with the Air & Surface Transport Nursing Association, Air Medical Physician Association, International Association of Flight and Critical Care Paramedics, International Association of Medical Transport Communication Specialists, and National EMS Pilots Association. All events will take place at the GWCC. All hotels are within walking distance of the center. Follow AMTC on all social media platforms, and review all the details at <http://aams.org/events/amtc>.

See you in the Peach State!

Atlanta, GA

Atlanta is the capital of the southeastern United States, as well as the capital of Georgia. It is a shining example of the New South, with its bustling transportation hub (Hartsfield Airport) and the terminus of a major rail line. The city has played a significant part of the civil rights movement for over 5 decades, serving as the center for organizing the movement. It has been the more recent home to the 1996 Olympics and the 2019 Super Bowl. Atlanta is the home to diverse cultures reflected in its arts, theater, music, and festival scenes.
