

American Journal of Preventive Medicine

INFORMATION FOR CATEGORY 1 CME CREDIT

Tobacco Screening and Treatment of Patients With a Psychiatric Diagnosis, 2012–2015

Erin S. Rogers, DrPH, Christina N. Wysota, MPH

(see page 687)

This article has been chosen to participate in the AJPM CME program. Please read and follow the instructions below:

Educational objectives

After reading this article, the learner should be able to:

1. Understand the importance of the need to screen and treat tobacco users with psychiatric comorbidities.
2. Identify recent rates of tobacco screening and treatment by physicians of people with psychiatric diagnoses.
3. Recognize missed opportunities to address tobacco use in a population with disproportionately high rates of tobacco use and related mortality.
4. Assess perceived barriers to quitting among tobacco users with psychiatric diagnoses.

Accreditation Statement

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the accreditation requirements and policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint providership of the American College of Preventive Medicine and the American College of Lifestyle Medicine. The American College of Preventive Medicine is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation

ACPM designates this enduring material for a maximum of 1 AMA PRA Category 1<sup>TM</sup> Credit per exam. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

ACPM is not accredited to offer credit to non-physicians. To determine if activities designated for AMA PRA Category 1<sup>TM</sup>

Credit are acceptable for your licensing or certification needs, please contact your credentialing body directly.

Disclosures

In accordance with the disclosure policy of the American College of Preventive Medicine (ACPM) and the American Journal of Preventive Medicine (AJPM), as well as the standards set forth by the Accreditation Council of Continuing Medical Education (ACCME), authors and any individuals in a position to control the content of a CME activity are required to disclose relevant financial relationships in any amount with commercial interests (within the past 12 months).

The authors, Erin S. Rogers and Christina N. Wysota, have disclosed that no relevant financial relationships exist.

Term of approval

November 2, 2019–November 2, 2022

Estimated time to complete this activity is 1 hour.

Instructions to receive CME credit

Once you have read the CME article, please visit www.ajpmonline.org/cme to complete the CME exam (with a score of at least 70%) and the CME evaluation survey. You will be able to download your CME certificate and will also receive an email with a link to your certificate.

Privacy policy

ACPM collects personal information from participants in this online activity for purposes of assigning CME credit only. We will not share or sell your contact information, and your answers to quizzes and feedback forms will be kept confidential.

Copyright information

The copyright for this material is held by the American Journal of Preventive Medicine.