

ELSEVIER

Contents lists available at ScienceDirect

American Journal of Infection Control

journal homepage: www.ajicjournal.org

AJIC
American Journal of Infection Control

Message from APIC

Registration for the APIC 47th Annual Conference is now open. Join us in Phoenix, Arizona, and be a part of the largest gathering of IPC professionals in the world

APIC
2020
JUNE 10-12 ❖ PHOENIX, AZ

The APIC 2020 Annual Conference features the fundamental best practices and innovative ideas that are influencing the future of IPC. The challenges facing infection preventionists and the health care community continue to grow in number and complexity. Now, more than ever, the learning and insight you will gain at APIC 2020 will provide you with the tools you need to succeed.

Featuring 3 days packed with education, networking, and fun, our program highlights the most important issues facing infection preventionists. You will be able to craft a custom curriculum to maximize your time at the conference and to receive the most relevant learning for you. You can be confident that you will return home with the tools and practical resources necessary to protect your facility and your patients.

Beyond the education it offers, APIC 2020 also provides an absolutely vital opportunity for you to connect with your peers. The value of networking and collaborating with other individuals who face your same challenges and understand your victories is almost impossible to measure; the energy and inspiration you can gain from your community are sure to invigorate you.

The host location for APIC 2020 is Phoenix, Arizona—a city where unmatched desert character meets big-city sophistication. Located in the heart of the Sonoran Desert, Phoenix boasts gorgeous scenery that sets it apart from other large cities. No matter where you will be traveling from, we are excited about seeing you in Phoenix. The Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport serves more than 125 domestic and international destinations, so join us to soak up continuing learning and networking and to bask in the sunny climate of Phoenix.

We truly believe that this conference will provide new strategies for you as you work to prevent infection, improve your bottom line, and save lives. We look forward to seeing you in Phoenix!

Register today at apic.org/APIC2020.