
JOURNAL OF CLINICAL EPIDEMIOLOGY

VOLUME 107, MARCH 2019

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Editorial

- vi Stepped wedge designs are coming of age in clinical epidemiology
Peter Tugwell, and J. André Knottnerus

Reviews

- 36 Generalizability of findings from randomized controlled trials is limited in the leading general medical journals
Antti Malmivaara
- 71 The shrinking scope of pragmatic trials: a methodological reflection on their domain of applicability
Ray Pawson
- 77 Quality of stepped-wedge trial reporting can be reliably assessed using an updated CONSORT: crowd-sourcing systematic review
Karla Hemming, Kelly Carroll, Jennifer Thompson, Andrew Forbes, and Monica Taljaard, The SW-CRT Review Group

Original Articles

- 1 The methodological quality of dose-response meta-analyses needed substantial improvement: a cross-sectional survey and proposed recommendations
Chang Xu, Yu Liu, Peng-Li Jia, Ling Li, Tong-Zu Liu, Liang-Liang Cheng, Ke Deng, A.S.M. Borhan, Lebana Thabane, and Xin Sun
- 12 Marginal structural models and other analyses allow multiple estimates of treatment effects in randomized clinical trials: Meta-epidemiological analysis
Hannah Ewald, Benjamin Speich, Aviv Ladanie, Heiner C. Bucher, John P.A. Ioannidis, and Lars G. Hemkens
- 27 Randomized trials involving surgery did not routinely report considerations of learning and clustering effects
Elizabeth J. Conroy, Anna Rosala-Hallas, Jane M. Blazeby, Girvan Burnside, Jonathan A. Cook, and Carrol Gamble
- 42 A cross-sectional bibliometric study showed suboptimal journal endorsement rates of STROBE and its extensions
Melissa K. Sharp, Ružica Tokalić, Guadalupe Gómez, Elizabeth Wager, Douglas G. Altman, and Darko Hren
- 51 Stratification by quality induced selection bias in a meta-analysis of clinical trials
Jennifer Stone, Usba Gurunathan, Kathryn Glass, Zachary Munn, Peter Tugwell, and Subail A.R. Doi

- 60 The TRIP database showed most acute respiratory infections questions were already addressed by Cochrane reviews
Justin Clark, Matt Carter, Anna Mae Scott, Jon Brassey, and Chris Del Mar
- 66 Hybrid models were found to be very elegant to disentangle longitudinal within- and between-subject relationships
Jos W.R. Twisk, and Wieke de Vente
- 89 Systematic review showed that stepped-wedge cluster randomized trials often did not reach their planned sample size
Felicitas A. Eichner, Rolf H.H. Groenwold, Diederick E. Grobbee, and Katrien Oude Rengerink
- 101 Getting more out of meta-analyses: a new approach to meta-analysis in light of unexplained heterogeneity
Amit Saad, Daniel Yekutieli, Shaul Lev-Ran, Raz Gross, and Gordon Guyatt
- 107 Firm human evidence on harms of endocrine-disrupting chemicals was unlikely to be obtainable for methodological reasons
Duk-Hee Lee, and David R. Jacobs Jr.
- 116 The dynamics in health-related quality of life of patients with stable coronary artery disease were revealed: a network analysis
Tom H. Oreeel, Denny Borsboom, Sacha Epskamp, Iris D. Hartog, Justine E. Netjes, Pythia T. Nieuwkerk, José P.S. Henriques, Michael Scherer-Rath, Hanneke W.M. van Laarhoven, and Mirjam A.G. Sprangers

Letters to the Editor

- 124 Response to letter to editor "Only ITT analysis provides information about the actual effects of a health policy": Assessment of health policy effects of health checks requires a broader perspective than the ITT
Lars Bruun Larsen, Trine Thilsing, Jens Sondergaard, and Anne-Louise Bjerregaard
- 125 Only ITT analysis provides information about the actual effects of a health policy - Author response
Anne Mette Bender, Charlotta Pisinger, and Torben Jørgensen
- 126 Issues in interpreting and estimating the excess risk in case of count data
Federico Tedeschi
- 127 Analyzing excess risk from matched designs with double controls: author's response
Donald A. Redelmeier, and Robert J. Tibshirani
- 128 "An error in an old paper illustrates the need for data/code archives"
B.D. McCullough
- 129 An Error in An Old Paper Illustrates the Need for Data/Code Archives - Author response
Walter N. Kernan, Catherine M. Viscoli, and Ralph I. Horwitz
